Quick tips to achieve the perfect Smokey Eye

The sexiest looks for any season are those with heavy eye makeup! The Smokey Eyes trend is the go-to as it highlights a woman's eyes and draws attention everywhere she goes. An easy and perfect tip to get it right every time is to smudge a coal pencil with a fluffy brush and then top it up with a black or brown shadow. As the holiday season approaches, it's either a full-on Smokey Eye with nude lips or gorgeous red lips with a crisp winged liner.

For a flawless base

It's a fact that this fabulous season of orange leaves makes our skin feel dry and flaky. To steer clear of such skin-related issues, we need to up our internal hydration levels by drinking at least 8 to 10 glasses of water, opting for fruits and salad, and focusing on improving the overall health of our skin. As good skin responds well to makeup, for a flawless base, try applying a hydrating foundation and use less powder to set it. As the weather is ideal for creamy products, it'll be a good idea to go for cream blushers instead of powder ones and creamy highlighters for that flawless, glowy look.

Hottest lipstick hues for the season

Plum and chocolate brown with a gloss - these shades never go out of style!

TREND TALK

Dr. Geetika Mittal Gupta
Aesthetic Physician & Founder,
ISAAC Luxe

It is that time of the year when our lips tend to get dry and chapped. If you are experiencing similar concerns, exfoliate your lips with a gentle lip scrub and then use a lip balm with SPF before stepping out in the sun. At night, remove all the makeup, especially on your lips, and apply a rich lip mask or a thick balm. You could also try lip slugging, a deep conditioning treatment that locks in moisture to soothe cracked, dry, or tight lips. Just layer a mix of thin and thick products and let them work overnight. Since water is critical for our skin to look and feel supple, drink at least 8 to 10 glasses of water every day. Avoid licking your lips as it causes dryness, and if you suffer from Angular Cheilitis, it will be a good idea to get your B12 levels checked.

TRESS TALK

STYLE IT, FLAUNT IT

Whether you love the season or not, everyone needs a special hairstyle to ace the fall season. If you are short on inspiration, here's a round-up of the top hairstyles to achieve using simple hairstyling tools and accessories.

TREND TALK

Amy Johnson
Global Lead Stylist, Dyson

We all want to look our best and our hairstyle helps us get that well-turned-out look. While our busy schedules may not permit regular visits to the salon, we can still achieve glamorous hairstyles right in the comfort of our homes with the help of a professional blow dryer. For those who want volume on the crown, dry 80% of your hair and blast-dry the roots to lift them. If you want a youthful and fun style, go for fringes and bangs. But remember they are high maintenance, and avoid drying them naturally as they won't sit right until you use a blow dryer.

SOFT UPDO

An easily attainable and romantic hairdo, it's perfect for cosy dinners with friends and loved ones. For a sophisticated yet laid-back look, turn your soft curls into a statement pinned-up appeal, without falling into a traditional bun.

To achieve this hairdo:

1. Start by using your Dyson Supersonic Hair Dryer and dry your hair up to 80%. Then create a centre part and section your hair into half.
2. Starting with one half, create outward curls by manually winding a small section of hair around a round brush while using the dryer on high heat and high airflow setting.
3. Heat each section of hair for 5 seconds, or until dry, and set the curls by pinning it up. Once its dry, remove the pin. Repeat the process and complete the first half of the hair.
4. Do the same on the other section of hair.
5. Once done, make a low side ponytail using an elastic rubberband.
6. Split the ponytail in half, twist one half of the elastic rubberband and secure it with pins. Repeat the same for the other half.
7. For a natural and soft look, loosen a few strands of hair from the crown and finger-brush to the side.

VOLUMISED BLOWOUT

Quick and easy, the smooth blowout hairstyle can make your hair look effortlessly chic, giving you the perfect start to wedding events.

To achieve this hairdo:

1. Start with clean, wet hair and dry your hair with the Dyson Supersonic Hair Dryer on medium speed and low heat.
2. Section your hair and attach any styling concentrator, which is engineered for focused styling. Select medium speed and medium heat.
3. Lift and dry roots with a large round brush, and follow the brush with a styling concentrator. Repeat on all sections.
4. To achieve a super smooth finish, use a hair gel along with a spoolie brush.
5. Repeat all sections.
6. Part your hair as per choice. Glam up the look by adding a rhinestone studded pin on one side.

CASUALLY ELEGANT

We've got you covered with this elegant look that's guaranteed to impress! No less than a showstopper, this hairdo is perfect to pair with a flowy skirt for your evening date.

To achieve this hairdo:

1. Dry your hair up to 80% using your Dyson Airwrap Multi-Styler with its pre-styling dryer attachment on high heat and high airflow setting. Scrunch the hair roots with your fingers to create a lift.
2. Create a centre part and section your hair into half.
3. On one half, create inward-facing curls by manually winding a small section of hair around the 40mm Airwrap barrel. Change the direction of airflow and repeat the process to heat outward-facing curls.
4. Once the hair is fully curled, attach the firm smoothing brush on the Dyson Airwrap Multi-Styler and brush through to loosen the curls from root to end.
5. Seal and add texture to the look by applying a setting spray.

ON FLEEK WAVES

For all those glamorous evenings, how about a look that adds volume to your hair and softness to your face? It's possible to achieve lustrous volume with sweeping soft curls that frame the face! This hairstyle enhances hair's natural movement with added texture, and the final look is awesome! It adds incredible bounce to shoulder-length hair or makes longer, straighter styles look better. Pair this hairdo with a long coat to bring back the 70's.

To achieve this hairdo:

1. Start with freshly washed, towel-dried hair that has been combed through. Be gentle with your hair when it is wet as it is weaker and more prone to damage.
2. Once free of tangles, add a volumising spray at the roots and section the hair.
3. Next, go in with a round volumising brush and a hair dryer at medium temperature and begin styling from underneath the hair section. Start twirling the brush outwards and dry the hair section by section. Ensure that the bristles create tension to shape hair as it dries.
4. For added volume, lift each section at the root as you dry. Ensure the section is fully dry before moving to the next section. If there is any moisture left in the hair, this will cause the style to drop out and that hard-earned volume to be lost.
5. To style the ends, flick the section outwards by placing the brush on top of the hair and turning it outwards.
6. Once dry, roll the section up and secure it with a sectioning clip. This will allow the hair to fully cool and set into a wavy shape with maximum volume. Repeat this on each section until all the hair is dry and clipped into rolls.
7. Allow hair to cool for five minutes before releasing each section until all clips have been removed. Gently brush the hair through with a short-bristled paddle brush and position it into place, flicking the hair over into a side parting.
8. Finish with a holding styling product to fix the style in place and increase style longevity.

Image Courtesy: Disha Patani/Instagram

BANGS AND FRINGES

While fringes add a touch of youthfulness, grown out fringes and unruly bangs can turn into a nightmare, if not taken care of. A fringe may require maintenance than one may anticipate.

To achieve this hairdo:

1. After washing your hair, always blow dry the fringe with the Dyson Supersonic Hair Dryer. Leaving it to dry naturally may cause annoying kinks or misdirected hair strands, resulting in a fringe that just won't sit right.
2. While blow drying, lift the roots up with a brush until the hair is almost dry. Then blast air downwards on top of the fringe to loosen and soften the shape. This will give a little volume and help the fringe sit more naturally. Any styling concentrate or a round volumising brush would be perfect.
3. To add shape and style to those gorgeous sweeping bangs, the fringe needs to be shaped away from the face. Using a straightener, bend the ends of the fringe outwards, and sweep them away to the sides of the face. Alternatively, use a curling barrel pointing away from the face.

Our cover star, Jim Sarbh turned muse for Mango Man's latest collection, and his winter-appropriate layered trench look is a sight to behold. Known for his unconventional, edgy, androgynous and effortless sense of style, the star often makes heads turn with his appearance on and off screen. COVER STORY

Tell us about how you manage work-life balance.

I am a workaholic, so balancing work and life is a continuous juggle. I have realised that without proper input, your output suffers. Some time away from work only improves your ability to work. It's important to have hobbies other than work.

If you didn't have a stylist, what would be your go-to fashion choices?

If I didn't have a stylist I would probably just gravitate to my signature look - black Reebok Maison Margiela sneakers, black socks with little white dots on them, black jeans, a purple rain velvet shirt, and a necklace.

When we open your wardrobe, we're bound to find a lot of ____ Pink!

One fashion trend you love, and one you think needs to be in the archives?

I love the timeless elegance of monochrome outfits. As for archiving: chunky sneakers.

Regarding healthy living, what are your daily practices to stay fit mentally and physically?

For me, healthy living means regular exercise, trying to fit in some meditation, and eating and sleeping well. Mental health is as important as physical health, and finding time for activities I enjoy contributes to my overall well-being. I also think just taking time out for yourself to do absolutely nothing is crucial.

A current earworm and what are you binge-watching?

I am watching The Curse by Nathan Fielder, binge-watching The Great Season 3, and my earworm would be Lee by Sporto Kantes.

If you could jet off anywhere where would it be?

Japan!

Could you describe your style in a few words?

Lions got a mane, peacocks got a tail.

If not an actor, what would you be?

Marine Biologist.

WOMEN'S FW '23 FASHION TRENDS

As the leaves change colour and temperatures drop, we know our wardrobes need to evolve to embrace warmth and comfort. For Fall-Winter '23-'24, it's a return to classic styles. There is an infatuation with tailoring, minimalist elegance and tone-on-tone looks in a neutral palette.

Fashion insiders reveal that the leading women's trend begins with hues of the season and the hero is red. Not a soft red or a ruby, but good old-fashioned scarlet. Red has been ubiquitous throughout the fashion shows and is predicted to be a sweeping trend this season. Designers were seeing red this season, taking the bold hue beyond the classic red dress and putting it on fresh silhouettes, like silky floor-length slip-dresses. Wear it head-to-toe for bonus points. But the power of a chic all-black look can never be underestimated. Year after year, the trend gets an upgrade and it never fails to impress. From striking black leather pants to spotlight-stealing trench coats, blazers and dresses, a dash of black, tweed and the signature houndstooth print will be the predominant in-trend this season. Opt for a tweed skirt suit with thigh-high boots, a turtle neck shimmering knit dress or a houndstooth blazer paired with solid skin-tight jeans and boots for the perfect winter look. So, without further ado here's how you can make a statement in the season's hottest apparel and accessories!

This season will witness an orchestration of boldness and elegance. The arrival of fall and winter brings with it a need for layered clothing, monochromatic looks and oversized jackets. They will be the go-to choice, offering both fashion-forward boldness and snug comfort. Maxi and midi skirts, a fashion revival this season, will present women with versatile options. Maxi skirts exude elegance and warmth, while midis impart a chic and contemporary appeal. Pairing them with boots, tights, or even sneakers elevates one's style. Tailored clothing, an enduring classic, is experiencing a resurgence in various forms this season, from impeccably crafted blazers to well-fitted trousers. This timeless, sophisticated look is suitable for both men and women. Wide-leg trousers with their contemporary, relaxed silhouette, serve as an excellent choice for both the genders. When paired with the right top, they have the power to elevate your entire outfit.

There will be a harmonious blend of bold colours, pristine whites and soothing greys, capturing the very spirit of the season. Thanks to 'Barbie', fuchsia is still having a moment, but the real on-trend hue for fall is red – not a soft red, not a ruby, a crimson or a burgundy. On the parallel, crisp whites symbolise the purity of autumn mornings, while shades of grey emulate the gentle, enveloping fog that graces the landscape.

MEN'S FW '23 FASHION TRENDS

When it comes to men's fashion, burgundy hues, trench coats, tailored blazers and classic silhouettes shine bright. The colour palette of beige, navy, brown and a new rich, deep shade of red that has been associated with royalty through the medieval and renaissance era, are the shades back in vogue for fall-winter '23-24. Being a versatile and gender-neutral colour the trend has been presented in a plethora of fabrics including silk, leather, velvet and more.

But what's winter fashion without throwing on some layers? From woollen mufflers to leather jackets, bombers and trench coats, layering steals the limelight this season. Trench coats are timeless classics that have transcended the notion of time; this season, they got longer. Almost to be called the Maxi Coat, a star piece, it goes down to the floor and sweeps the ground, preferably cut in a beautiful wool. Featuring a classic, timeless aesthetic, designers are updating long coats for the upcoming season by offering more oversized and deconstructed silhouettes in vibrant colours and featuring bold graphic prints.

The season's overarching theme revolves around the use of luxe fabrics and intricate detailing, there is also a resurgence of classic and signature silhouettes. Men's fashion is leaning towards opulent silhouettes. The key to achieving a sharp and sophisticated look lies in layering. The incorporation of decadent prints and luxurious textures enhances the overall appearance, giving men's fashion a rich and lavish aesthetic. Some contemporary silhouettes also draw inspiration from military elements, incorporating dark olive and green hues alongside metallic embellishments, creating a striking and bold look.

Colour Play and Fabric Pairing

While there's an array of fabrics and colours available in the market, the most obvious choice is a black tuxedo in wool keeping the season in mind. If you're looking for something fashion-forward, pick options like velvet with embellishments and silk, while satin can also add a touch of opulence to your tuxedo. To take your fashion quotient up, there is room for experimentation in the realm of tuxedo colours from midnight blue to burgundy (a popular colour trend), as these offer a subtle twist on tradition. For those who wish to make a bolder statement, deep maroons, forest greens, and white tuxedos are stylish choices.

Tuxedo V/S Suits

So, what distinguishes a tuxedo suit from a regular suit? According to Raymond Made to Measure, the difference lies in the lapel. A tuxedo has a satin lapel, while the shawl lapel is the most common and classic. The notch accounts for a more contemporary look, the peak strikes a perfect balance between both. Another key factor is that a tuxedo suit uses satin buttons for an elegant and sophisticated look. Also, jetted pockets are preferred over flap pockets for a sleeker look.

An Eye for Tailoring

Choosing the ideal tuxedo is more than just a matter of walking into a store and picking the first one that catches your eye. It's a process that requires careful consideration, attention to detail, and an understanding of your personal style and body type. Selecting the perfect tuxedo is an art that blends tradition with personal style. But let's be honest, tuxedos can tend to look all the same – a black jacket with a bowtie and white satin buttons. So, what can make yours unique? It is the fit and attention to detail - one of the most important points to consider when choosing a tuxedo. While off-the-rack options can be a good starting point, investing in a bespoke well-tailored tuxedo is often essential to achieve that impeccable look which is guaranteed by Minizmo, S&N by Shantnu Nikhil, and Mohanlal Sons.

- Wearing the right shirt is an important trick to achieving a perfect tuxedo look. A pleated, Marcella or a textured shirt is the most recommended pairing for a tuxedo suit. A shirt with a wing collar looks debonair, especially when paired with a bowtie. The shirt usually has studs instead of buttons, or a concealed placket which lends a formal look.
- When wearing a tuxedo, always wear black shoes in a plain-toe style, remember Oxfords not Brogues.
- A solid white pocket square adds the right amount of class to the tuxedo look.
- Traditionally a black bowtie is most commonly paired with a tuxedo suit, but an embellished or textured bowtie can help add a distinctive flair to the ensemble. The bowtie can also be accompanied by a waistband commonly referred to as the cummerbund. It helps keep the dress shirt looking smooth and prevents it from puffing up at the waist.

A REFINED SIP

Whisky might have once had a reputation for being the drink of choice for old men, however with time, that has changed. Whether you're a seasoned connoisseur or an eager novice, the allure of a good single malt can't be ignored. In fact, few whiskies compare to the refined flavour and quality of Glenfiddich's single malts. Angad Singh Gandhi, Brand Ambassador – India, Glenfiddich, spoke to DLF Malls and breaks down all that you need to know about whisky cocktails, flavour profiles and whisky tasting.

William Grant & Sons is a distillery steeped in familial tradition and boasts a rich history of crafting premium single malts such as Glenfiddich and The Balvenie. Pioneering the global single malt movement, Glenfiddich made its historic debut outside Scotland in 1962, establishing itself as a category trailblazer. Leveraging a vast heritage of owning aged casks, William Grant & Sons offers a diverse array of expressions, tailored to individual preferences. This year, the brand has introduced the Grand Series and the Time Reimagined Collection in India, featuring exquisite offerings like the Glenfiddich 23-year-old Grand Cru, Glenfiddich 26-year-old Grande Couronne, the limited edition Glenfiddich 29-year-old Grand Yozakura, and the venerable Glenfiddich 30-year-old Single Malt whisky. So refine your palate as you savour one of these superb single malt whiskies. These luxurious whiskies also make for fantastic gifting and are great collectables.

TREND TALK

Angad Singh Gandhi
Brand Ambassador - India, Glenfiddich

How should you pick a whisky? And tell us about the different whisky flavour profiles.

Choosing whisky depends on personal preferences based on factors like flavour profile (smoky, sweet, fruity), region of origin etc. If you are looking to explore different types like single malt, blended, or bourbon find what suits your taste. Attend tastings or read reviews to refine your palate, ultimately, it's about enjoying what you like. The palate of whisky is as varied as the regions it hails from. Different whisky flavours that one can enjoy are often characterised by their essence, a sweet whisky with notes of caramel, vanilla, and honey dancing on the taste buds, with the complexity offered through the way the whisky is finished. Fruity whiskies present a delightful medley of flavours, ranging from orchard fruits to citrus undertones. The Glenfiddich 15-year-old, for example, is silky smooth, revealing layers of sherry oak, marzipan, cinnamon and ginger, owing to the casks in which the whisky is matured.

When creating a whisky-based cocktail what are some tips to keep in mind?

If you are looking to create a whisky cocktail, choose a whisky that complements the cocktail's flavour profile. For instance, the Glenfiddich 15-year-old works well in sweeter cocktails, while the Glenfiddich 18-year-old can add a spicier kick in spirit-forward cocktails. Experiment based on your preferences and the cocktail recipe. Secondly, it's essential to achieve a harmonious balance of sweet, sour, and bitter components, these can add depth and complexity to whisky cocktails. Use high-quality mixers like vermouth, tonic, or ginger beer to enhance the cocktail's overall character and whenever possible, use freshly squeezed citrus juices for a burst of freshness. Finally, when you are serving the cocktail, choosing appropriate glassware for your cocktail is imperative as it enhances the drinking experience. Coupe glasses, Highballs, or Old Fashioned glasses are the best fit.

What is the right way to savour and taste whisky?

Savouring whisky is a personal experience, but there are a few things to keep in mind. While tasting use a tulip-shaped glass or a Glencairn glass to concentrate the aromas, appreciate the colour of the whisky and use the technique of nosing to identify the various aromas. After taking a small sip pay attention to the flavours – is it sweet, spicy, or fruity? Is the texture smooth, oily or robust? Another great way to taste whisky is by experimenting with adding a few drops of water to open up different flavours. Some whiskies benefit from a splash of water. At the end of it, your personal preferences define how you enjoy your whisky.

WINE AND DINE

Wine connoisseur and expert, Sonal C. Holland, India's First and Only Master of Wine, teaches us how to pick the right wine for the winter months.

Image Courtesy: Delhi Club House, Horizon Plaza

As the weather gets cooler, and the temperatures dip to single digits, it's the ideal time to sip on something that gives you that warm, fuzzy feeling. Be it an indulgent cup of hot cocoa, mulled wine, hot toddy, or the best – a glass of heavy-bodied red wine. There's a certain allure to cosying up by a bonfire with a warm hearty meal and a carefully chosen bottle of wine. Winter's arrival doesn't only signal a change in the seasons, it also impacts your choice of wine as winter is all about a full-body texture and warming sensation. Whether you're savouring a rich, slow-cooked stew, enjoying a cheese platter with friends, or simply unwinding after a long day, the right wine can truly elevate your winter moments.

What are some of the things to keep in mind while choosing a wine for the winter season?

Winter makes a lot of people desire big, bold red wines that have a high volume of alcohol and warm the heart. Bold and full-bodied red wines like Syrah, Cabernet Sauvignon and Sangiovese are perfect for winters. These wines will warm you up on chilly nights as they have relatively higher volumes of alcohol. In India, dry wines with a sweet fruit-forward expression are preferred; the most popular winter wines are Shiraz - a robust wine with bold flavours, and Merlot - a middle-of-the-road wine that is well-rounded and easy-drinking.

Throw light on wine and food pairings for the upcoming holiday season.

For a lot of us, winter means Christmas and a popular Christmas dish is a rich honey-glazed Ham. It's sweet and salty and needs a wine that can cut through all the fattiness and refresh your palate. So, you can either pick a crisp white wine like a Riesling or Chenin Blanc from the Loire Valley or much sweeter styles like Moscato or Vin Santo. If you have to serve just one wine throughout the meal, then go for a dry rosé as it pairs perfectly well with all kinds of dishes, and offers the lightness and freshness of white wines along with the deep fruitiness and richness of red wines. If you are putting together a Charcuterie Board with hard cheeses that have powerful flavours, serve intense red wines like Malbec, Cabernet Sauvignon or Nebbiolo to your guests. Sweet and unctuous dessert wines like Tawny Port or Rutherglen Muscat go extremely well with sharp cheeses like French Roquefort or Gorgonzola, as the wines offer a great contrast to their saltiness. The great thing about these wines is that they also pair perfectly well with holiday desserts like Christmas pudding, fruit cake or chocolate cookies.

For making mulled wine, you must ensure that your wine is young and fresh, preferably ripe and fruit-forward. Try not to use wines that are overly oaked, tannic or astringent as they may spoil the taste. A deep-coloured comforting wine like Malbec, Tempranillo or a lovely ripe Merlot will bring a nice hue and fruitiness to your mulled wine.

What food pairs best with wine while hosting at home?

The beauty of wine is that it can pair with a wide variety of foods. So, while Champagne can be paired with caviar, it also goes well with Indian starters like hot, oily and crunchy vegetable pakoras. An intense red wine like Cabernet Sauvignon is traditionally enjoyed with meat dishes like a hearty steak, but it also pairs perfectly with greasy, soft and melt-in-your-mouth Galouti Kebabs. Similarly, a zesty and vibrant Riesling with floral notes will pair equally well with pork belly and spicy seafood dish in Butter Pepper Garlic sauce.

What is the right method to taste a wine, and what are the flavour profiles one can expect?

See: Tilt your glass away from yourself and observe the colour of your wine. Swirl the wine so that it can interact with the oxygen in the air – aerating the wine will open up and release its bouquet of aromas.

Sniff: Then, bring the wine glass closer to your nose, take a deep breath and try to analyse what you smell. Don't be in a hurry to sip on the wine, instead take your time to appreciate the bouquet of aromas in your wine.

Sip: Now take a sip from your glass and swish the wine in your mouth before you swallow and pay attention to the levels of acidity, tannins, sweetness and alcohol. And don't forget to observe how the wine feels in your mouth - is it light-bodied, medium-bodied or full-bodied?

Savour: Lastly, see how long the flavours of the wine linger in your mouth. The longer it lasts on the palette, the better the wine.
